Fund Manager Comment

The third quarter of 2024 was positive for fixed income in general, with the expectation of lower rates appearing to be more of a certainty than an expectation. During this quarter, the Fed ended a 14-month wait for the first rate cut of 50 bps that benefitted pretty much all asset classes, including Fixed Income. This came amid a lower unemployment rate and moderating inflation that prompted the Fed to initiate a more accommodative monetary policy to ensure the soft-landing scenario remains intact.

During the third quarter, US 10 Year moved lower from 4.39% to 3.78% with rate cut expectations going forward. We are expected to have 2 to 3 rate cuts before the end of 2025 within the next two Fed meetings scheduled. On the Spread front, despite the escalation of the regional conflict, spreads have remained tighter yet volatile. Also, it was witnessed that the US yield curve from 2Y plus steepened during this period, with the 2-10 gap being at 13.7 bps as of the end of the month.

However, many variables are in play, as the US budget deficit is expected to widen with either of the US administrations in power and a possible reversal in the inflation trend. Therefore, there is a remote possibility of a rate hike and an elevation of the yield curve from current levels. During the month, Brent ended lower at c. USD 71.77 from c. USD 78.80, with expected lower global demand, especially with weakness in the Chinese economy. The regional IG and HY space remain favorable to their global counterparts and will continue attracting flows from yield-seeking investors.

QNB MENA Debt Fund, after being launched in 2017, has paid 14 coupons. We remain focused on taking advantage of the opportunistic trades apparent in the market. The fund manager has gradually increased the fund's duration to position the fund to an eventual steeper yield curve. Assets of the Fund are satisfactorily deployed as per the investment guidelines and also in line with the selected benchmark, which the fund intends to outperform in the longer run.
